Legal basis

The processing of data arising from the use of technical cookies necessary for the operation of the site is carried out in the legitimate interest of the Data Controller.

Data recipients

The personal data processed by the Owner are not disseminated, i.e. they are not given to unspecified subjects, in any possible form, including making them available or simply consulting them.

The data may be processed by employees, on the basis of their roles and duties, and by collaborators of the Data Controller for the pursuit of the purposes indicated above.

These subjects have been authorised to process the data and have received adequate operating instructions.

The personal data acquired may also be communicated, to the extent strictly necessary, to subjects who, for the purpose of processing your requests, must supply goods or perform services on behalf of the Data Controller in connection with the management of the website, who have been designated as Data Processors.

In particular, they may be processed by companies and professionals who provide management and maintenance services for the website and information services.

Finally, they may be communicated to the subjects entitled to access them by virtue of provisions of the law, regulations, and EU legislation.

Transfer of data

Under no circumstances does the Data Controller transfer personal data to third countries or to international organisations.

However, it reserves the possibility of using cloud services; in which case, the service providers will be selected from among those who provide adequate guarantees, as provided for in Article 46 GDPR.

Nature of data provision

Acceptance of technical cookies is a necessary condition for browsing the site.

Rights of the Data Subject

The Data Subject may exercise at any time the rights provided for by the GDPR 2016/679, in particular:

- The right of access (art. 15): to request confirmation of the processing of your data and possibly a copy of the personal data in our possession and to verify the lawfulness of the processing.
- The right of rectification (Art.16): to request the rectification of the personal data we hold on you. This allows you to have the incomplete or inaccurate data in our possession corrected, although it may be necessary to verify the accuracy of the new data you have provided.
- the right to erasure (Art. 17): requesting that we erase or remove your personal data if there are no valid reasons for continuing to process it or following the exercise of the right to object (see below), in the event of unlawful processing of your data or when we are required to erase your personal data to comply with applicable law. Please note, however, that we may not always be able to comply with your request for erasure due to specific legal obligations which will be communicated to you, if applicable, at the time of your request.
- the right to restriction of processing (art.18): requesting the suspension of the processing of your personal data in the following cases:
 - a) verification of the accuracy of the data;
 - b) in the event of unlawful use of the data but you do not want us to erase them;
 - c) if you request us to retain the data (which we do not need to retain) for the purpose of establishing, exercising or defending legal claims; or
 - d) if you have objected to our use of your data but we need to verify whether there are overriding legitimate reasons for using it.
- the right to portability (art.20): request to transfer your data in an intelligible format to another entity indicated by you.
- the right to object to the processing of your personal data (Art. 21).

- the right to object to automated decision-making processes (Art. 22).

The Data Controller recalls in particular that any Data Subject may exercise the right to object in the forms and ways provided for in Article 21 GDPR.

The Data Subject may exercise its rights by writing to the Data Controller at the above address, or by email, specifying the subject of the request, the right they intend to exercise and attaching a photocopy of an identity document attesting the legitimacy of the request.

Complaints

The Data Subject has the right to lodge a complaint with the supervisory authority of the state of residence.

Automated decision-making processes

In no case does the Data Controller carry out processing operations consisting of automated decision-making processes on the data of natural persons.
